

New law defines "authorized to be present on school premises", "school", "school premises", "school-sponsored function", "student", and "teacher".

New law provides that unlawful disruption of the operation of a school is the commission of any of the following acts by a person who is not authorized to be on school premises, which would foreseeably cause any of the following:

- (1) Intimidate or harass a teacher or student by threat of force or force.
- (2) Placing teachers or students in sustained fear for their health, safety, or welfare.
- (3) Disrupting, obstructing or interfering with the operation of the school.

New law provides a penalty of a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment with or without hard labor for not less than one year nor more than five years, or both.

New law does not apply to lawful assemblies and bonafide labor organization activities.

Effective August 15, 2009.
