DIGEST

Present law, relative to dual officeholding and dual employment, provides that in addition to the prohibitions in present law, and except as specifically exempted by law, certain combinations of office and employment are incompatible and may not be held by the same person.

Proposed law retains present law and further prohibits an incumbent employed, for compensation, in the office of a district attorney, on a full time or part time basis, or on retainer, to serve as the regular attorney and counsel for, and be compensated for such services by, a governing authority of a parish within the jurisdiction of the employing district attorney, if the district attorney is responsible, by law, for such representation. This provision shall not apply if such employment of a regular attorney and counsel by the parish governing authority is specifically authorized by law or by home rule charter.

Effective August 15, 2011.
