Abstract: Prohibits civil liability for refusal to mandate an experimental or emergency use authorized vaccination and protects business permits and professional licenses from refusal or failure to refuse to mandate an experimental or emergency use authorized vaccination.

Proposed law provides that no natural or juridical person shall be liable for any civil damages and no cause of action may be maintained against a natural or juridical person who in the course of, through the performance of, or by a provision of their business operations, refuses to mandate an experimental or emergency use authorized vaccination for any employee or customer.

Proposed law provides that the state, a state agency, or political subdivision thereof shall not refuse to permit, renew, or withhold a business license or professional license solely on the basis of the business refusing to mandate experimental or emergency use authorized vaccinations.
