Current law requires the Commissioner of Conservation to establish rules, regulations, and orders necessary for administering and enforcing carbon sequestration operations, including plugging abandoned wells, closing associated surface facilities, removing equipment and structures, and conducting general site cleanup. The commissioner is authorized to conduct investigations, inspections, and inquiries related to waste prevention, enforce compliance, and approve unit operations for geologic storage to promote efficient development and prevent waste through the consolidation of separately owned tracts.

Proposed law retains current law and provides that the Secretary give substantial consideration to local government comments when determining appropriate courses of action in matter requiring public comment or hearings. Effective August 1, 2025.
