

New law revises terminology referring to persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities.

General Provisions

New law revises terminology in prior law referring to persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities by deleting and making substitutions for obsolete, derogatory, or offensive terms.

New law corrects names of agencies, institutions, private organizations, and other entities; removes references to offices, bureaus, and other subdivisions of state agencies and to programs and services that have otherwise been repealed or no longer exist; and makes technical changes and corrections.

New law provides a legislative finding indicating that language used to refer to persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities shapes and reflects attitudes toward and perceptions of such persons by society.

New law provides that it is the intent of the legislature, through enactment of new law, to:

- (1) Delete from prior law terms that convey negative or derogatory perceptions of persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities.
- (2) Establish new terminology in law that is more appropriate than the terminology it replaces, and which conveys no explicit or implicit dehumanization of persons with disabilities or other persons with exceptionalities.

New law stipulates that it is not the intent of the legislature that the changes in terms affected by new law affect the substance, application, or interpretation of any provision of existing law or existing administrative code.

New law provides that nothing in new law shall be construed to expand or diminish any right of or benefit for any person provided by existing law or existing administrative code.

Effective prospectively, new law authorizes and requests each agency, board, commission, department, and other instrumentality of the state with rulemaking authority to employ the preferred terminology provided for in new law in referring to persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities in the following:

- (1) Duly promulgated administrative rules.
- (2) Policy publications.
- (3) All materials published in paper format or electronically, whether for internal use or public use, including but not limited to the following:
  - (a) Informational brochures.
  - (b) Resource guides.
  - (c) Reference materials.
  - (d) Manuals.
  - (e) The content of any Internet website or other electronic media.

New law stipulates that nothing in new law shall be construed to limit any agency, board, commission, department, office, or other instrumentality of the state from amending existing administrative code for the purpose of instituting the preferred terminology described in new law.

New law authorizes the legislative services offices of the legislature to publish guidance in legislative drafting manuals and in other professional resources as appropriate concerning use of the preferred terminology described in new law.

New law authorizes the La. State Law Institute to change terminology referring to persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities throughout statutes and codes wherever necessary to institute the preferred terminology described in new law.

Description of Terminology Changes

New law provides for the following changes to terminology in prior law:

- (1) For purposes of new law, references to "intellectual disability" mean any condition formerly referred to as "mental retardation".
- (2) For purposes of new law, references to a "person with an intellectual disability" mean a person formerly referred to as "mentally retarded".
- (3) For purposes of new law, the term "disability", as used to describe a condition or characteristic of a person, has the meaning of the former term "handicap" as used in the same manner.
- (4) For purposes of new law, references to a "person with a physical disability" and a "person with a disability", as appropriate to the context, mean a person formerly referred to as "physically handicapped", a "handicapped person", "the handicapped", a "crippled person", a "disabled person", or "the disabled".
- (5) For purposes of new law, references to a "person who is infirm" and a "person with an infirmity" have the meaning of the former terms "the infirm" or "the infirmed".
- (6) For purposes of new law, references to a person who "acquires a disability" have the meaning of the former references to a person who "becomes disabled".
- (7) For purposes of new law, references to "certified as having a disability" have the meaning of the former references to "certified as disabled".
- (8) For purposes of new law, the terms "accessible" and "accessibility" have the meanings, respectively, of the former terms "handicapped accessible" and "handicapped accessibility".
- (9) For purposes of new law, references to a "person with a mobility impairment" mean a person formerly referred to as "mobility impaired".
- (10) For purposes of new law, references to a "person with mental illness" mean a person formerly referred to as either "the mentally ill" or a "mentally ill person".

New law provides that for purposes of new law, the linguistic paradigm known as "person first language", which emphasizes a person's humanity over any condition or characteristic the person may have, is employed wherever possible to refer to persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities. Provides a declaration affirming the importance of person first language as a respectful and preferred way of referring to persons with disabilities and other persons with exceptionalities.
