EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Expenses of districts can be paid with the resources of the district. These district resources are presumed to be funded by dedicated tax increment financing, discussed below, or by new tax receipts authorized by the bill. The bill is general in nature with no specificity of what level of expenses may be associated with any district, nor the financing mechanism of any expenses.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

The bill provides general tax increment financing authority, and does not specify the boundaries of a district (to be established by the parish government) or the tax increment financing mechanism that may be employed (to be determined by the district). Ad valorem increments would affect only local funds, while sales tax increments could involve both state and local funds. In general, tax increment financing dedicates revenue growth, that would have otherwise accrued to existing governmental purposes, to the purposes of the district; usually financing construction of facilities or supporting infrastructure. It is possible that new revenue is generated to support the district purpose, since the bill allows the district to levy ad valorem, sales, and hotel occupancy taxes. In these cases existing revenue flows are not affected. Specific estimates of new or existing revenue affected by the bill is not possible.
