

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 242

BY SENATOR JACKSON

A RESOLUTION

Creates the Task Force on Mental Health Courts to study the feasibility of implementing and funding mental health courts in Senate District No. 34.

WHEREAS, the United States Department of Justice's Bureau of Justice Assistance provides funding for mental health courts through the Justice and Mental Health Collaboration Program (JMHCPC) which fund projects that enable communities to implement innovative and collaborative efforts that will improve system-wide performance in addressing the needs of adult offenders who have mental disabilities or illnesses; and

WHEREAS, the goal of mental health courts is to reduce the frequency of contact between the client and the criminal justice system by providing courts with resources to improve the client's social functioning and to connect the client to employment, housing, treatment, and support services; and

WHEREAS, mental health courts aim to reduce the criminal recidivism of mentally ill offenders and increase their participation in effective treatment by combining court supervision with community-based treatment services, usually in lieu of a jail or prison sentence; and

WHEREAS, research indicates that some participants in mental health courts have lower rates of recidivism than individuals with mental illnesses processed through the traditional criminal court system, and that this trend continues after individuals are no longer under court supervision; and

WHEREAS, mental health courts have also been found to connect participants with mental health treatment services more effectively than do the traditional court system and jails, and have the potential to save money through reduced recidivism, associated savings in jail and court costs, and reduced treatment by avoiding expensive inpatient care; and

WHEREAS, while mental health courts generally deal with nonviolent offenders who have been diagnosed with a mental illness or co-occurring mental health and substance abuse disorders, they are also designed to accept individuals charged with more serious offenses; and

WHEREAS, there are more than 300 mental health courts in existence throughout the United States with even more being planned; and

WHEREAS, mental health courts use incentives and sanctions tailored to the circumstances and needs of each participant, and are typically composed of a judge, defense attorney, prosecutor, probation/parole officer, and case managers and/or representatives from the mental health system.
