DIGEST

SB 299 Original

2024 Regular Session

Seabaugh

Present law provides that any agreement, understanding, or practice in any form between any employer and labor organization made in violation of certain provisions of law is not enforceable.

Proposed law retains present law and adds that labor unions and other employee associations cannot be recognized as collective bargaining or meet and confer agents for the purpose of entering into collective bargaining contracts or memorandums of understanding that outlines the terms and conditions of employment with labor unions or any other association of employees related to employment services.

Effective August 1, 2024.
