Provides relative to the Habitual Offender Law

Current law provides for law governing the sentencing of second and subsequent felony offenses. Proposed law changes (with respect to sentences for second and subsequent offenses) the particular point of time between the current felony offense and the previous conviction or convictions (for one or multiple bill proceedings, for convictions that are crimes of violence, or for each preceding conviction alleged in a multiple offender bill) from the expiration of the correctional supervision, or term of imprisonment if the offender is not placed on supervision following imprisonment, to the date of completion of sentence, probation, parole, or suspension of sentence for the previous conviction or convictions alleged (for one or multiple bill proceedings); provides that any period of time during which an offender was incarcerated in a penal institution or under probation or parole supervision in this state or another can not be included in the computation of any five-year periods in current law; provides that any period of time during which an offender was incarcerated in a penal institution or under probation or parole supervision in this state or any other shall not be included in the computation of any of the 10-year periods provided in current law.
