Provides relative to reciprocal overpayment recovery arrangements with federal and state agencies

Current law allows the state to enter into reciprocal arrangements between agencies of other states or the federal government with certain stipulations.

Proposed law retains current law and authorizes Louisiana to join the Interstate Reciprocal Overpayment Recovery Agreement (IRORA) allowing states to act as agents for each other in collecting overpaid unemployment benefits from pending unemployment benefits.

EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental expenditures as a result of this measure. The minimal expenses associated with the effort, estimated at a few thousand dollars,include form, report and notice generation as well as computer system adaptations and postage. These expenses will be absorbed in the current budget using federal funds appropriated for this type of purpose.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

The proposed legislation is anticipated to result in an increase in SGR. There are situations in which an individual receives an overpayment of unemployment benefits, which the state must attempt to recover. This bill will authorize a reciprocal arrangement between Louisiana and other signatory states to collect overpayment of unemployment benefits from current unemployment benefits being paid.

In FY 12, Louisiana collected about $8.9M in unemployment benefit overpayments. The experience of states currently in the agreement show an anticipated increase of 1%-3% in collections. In LA’s case, the range of anticipated additional collections is $89,000 to $267,000. These collections will be returned to the Unemployment Trust Fund, which is not part of the state budget.

Along with the benefit restitution, the agency expects to collect penalties and interest, which are deposited into the Penalty and Interest Account to fund the department (depicted as SGR in the table above). Current penalty and interest collections are $2.9 M annually. If collections increase 1%, the statutory dedication revenue will increase by $29,000.
