

Existing House Rule provides that each resolution shall be read upon introduction in the House and referred to an appropriate committee on the next legislative day following introduction (except for perfunctory resolutions and any resolution or motion which directs a committee to report on a specified legislative instrument, or which recalls an instrument from committee). Existing House Rule specifies that a resolution suspending a law in whole or in part shall only be adopted in accordance with the same procedures and formalities as are provided by the constitution, by law, and by specified existing House Rules for the passage of instruments having the force and effect of law, and any such resolution shall fix the period of suspension, which period shall not extend beyond the 60th day after adjournment sine die of the next regular session after adoption thereof.

New House Rule provides that except as otherwise provided for suspension resolutions, a concurrent resolution shall only be adopted upon a favorable vote of at least a majority of the elected members of the House.

Effective May 29, 2013.
