EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

This legislation is anticipated to increase in state general fund expenditures within the Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) by at least $221,914 as well as an indeterminable expenditure increase in district courts; however the exact fiscal impact of this legislation is indeterminable.

Department of Children and Family Services and Local

The proposed law extends child support for unmarried adult children with disabilities pass the age of majority (18 years old). Under this proposed law, an adult child with a disability or their tutor/curator may file a suit in court against the non-custodial parent for an award of child support. Through its Child Support Enforcement (CSE) section, DCFS assists custodial parents (tutors/curators) with establishing and enforcing child support orders. Approximately half of the CSE cases within DCFS are contracted out to local district attorneys. Therefore, if the child or their custodial parent file action under this measure using the assistance of DCFS, the cost to the state and local governments for each court appearance is $150 ($51 local government and $99 DCFS). However the Legislative Fiscal Office cannot determine how many adult children with disabilities or their custodial parents would seek assistance from DCFS under this measure.

In addition, DCFS estimates a one-time cost of \$200,000 (\$100,000 SGF and \$100,000 Federal) for IT infrastructure changes to comply with this measure as well as administrative costs of approximately \$21,914 to annually identify children reaching the age of majority a year prior to determine if the proposed law would apply to them. To identify the potential children, DCFS anticipates mailing notices to 34,241 parents of children with disabilities at a cost of 64 cents per notice ($34,241 \times $.64 = $21,914$).

Judicial

To the extent the proposed legislation increases the number of actions filed by an adult child with a disability or their tutor/curator in district courts regarding child support, an indeterminable increase in court costs associated with judicial workload, time and attendance (presence of judges, clerks, bailiffs, counsel, etc.) may result.
