WHEREAS, Judge Stagg was saved from death when a German bullet struck the New Testament he carried in his pocket, and he shared that story and showed the bullet-scarred holy book to colleagues and friends for decades; and

WHEREAS, he briefly attended Cambridge University Law School in England and LSU Law School, where he received his Juris Doctor in 1949; and

WHEREAS, Judge Stagg began his legal career at the firm of Hargrove, Guyton, Van

1 Hook and Hargrove, was a solo practitioner from 1953 to 1958, and thereafter became the 2 senior partner with Stagg, Cady, Johnson and Haygood and the successor firm of Stagg, 3 Cady and Beard; and

4 WHEREAS, while maintaining a thriving legal practice, he was also active in 5 business and civic affairs, both locally and nationally, being very involved in the Jaycees,
6 the Saint John's Parents Club, the Shreveport Airport Authority, and the annual Red Mass
7 in the Shreveport-Bossier community; and

8 WHEREAS, he was awarded the LSU Paul M. Hebert Law Center's Distinguished 9 Alumnus award and named to the Byrd High Hall of Fame; and

10 WHEREAS, he was an active Republican at every level from the precinct on up, 11 serving as a five-time delegate to the Republican National Convention from 1956 to 1972 12 and as national committeeman as well as chairman on several of the committees; and

13 WHEREAS, he was an elected delegate to the 1974 Louisiana Constitutional 14 Convention; and

15 WHEREAS, Judge Stagg was appointed to the United States District Court for the 16 Western District of Louisiana in 1974, served as chief judge from 1984 to 1991, and 17 assumed senior status in 1992; and

18 WHEREAS, he continued as an active jurist for the remainder of his life and his 19 personal feeling was that "this was the best job a guy could have"; and
